New legal chief of Comelec not daunted by slays

By Katrina L. Kian

MANILA (PNA)—Two presidential commissioners were announced, President Arroyo said, the new legal department chief of the Commission on Elections (Comelec), remained unnamed.

Rabanan, the second person to occupy the post in seven months, does not believe his new assignment brings bad luck.

"I don't believe in jinxes. It's matters of perception. Why should you be afraid when you are not doing anything wrong? As long as we do what is right, we should not be afraid of anything or anyone," Rabanan told the lawyers on Monday.

Nevertheless, he has asked the commission for two bodyguards.

Rabanan said his job was the best way to bring change to the Comelec, which has incurred a series of public perceptions about several officials, including former Chair Benjamin Diokno Jr., were implicated in electoral fraud and corruption cases.

Outspoken lawyer

Rabanan, who has been working for the poll agency for a decade, said he was grateful to Comelec Chair Jose A. B. Mada for appointing him, adding that he applied for the post to see where he stood with the current commission.

The outspoken lawyer has been at odds with past Comelec officials on issues ranging from campaign posters to the people's initiative.

In 2007, the Comelec leadership removed Rabanan from his NCR office and placed him in Banting where after he refused to comply the requirement for an administrative-backed people's initiative to amend the 1987 Constitution pending the Supreme Court's decision on the legality of the process.

High on his agenda, he said, would be to help restore the Comelec's credibility.

Rabanan, who admitted to being known as someone who is "difficult" and "independent-minded," said his appointment by Mada was a sign that the agency was ready to change its "image of corruption."

"If they're corrupt..."

In the new chief of the Comelec legal department, Rabanan said politicians with pending cases in the agency would be treated seriously and fairly. He ordered his staff to make an inventory of pending cases.

He also said he would make sure all lawyers in his department were competent.

Those who fail, he said, would have to take seminars and volunteer cases to charity law. "If they are corrupt, then they should go."

Rabanan said he was not afraid that his life would be in danger because of his job. His two secretaries, Alden Baling and Mylene Abula, were posted down in November 2007 and March 2008, respectively.

The police tagged 651 Jose B. Mada's daughter, who was based in Mindanao, as the suspect in bank tellings, which they said was politically motivated.

Investigation was ordered last April.

Subic execs lauded for big shabu bust

ALBINO BAY FREEPORT—JESUS RICHARD Gordon has commended operations of the Subic Bay Metropolitan Authority (SBMA) and the Presidential Anti-Drug Group (PADG) for the major drug bust that led to the arrest of a major drug lord in a major shabu bust.

In a congratulatory message relayed through SBMA Administrator Arnold Torres on Monday, Gordon commended SBMA law enforcement who first investigated the drug shipment, saying they prevented the "new wave" of shabu, which has been the top drug in the region, from being sold.

"Without the diligence of these brave men, the source of illegal drugs would have spread further and costed the society more," Gordon said.

Gordon had earlier commended operations of PADG and the SBMA in a private speech on May 30, especially citing the SBMA Law Enforcement Department (LED) for being instrumental in finding the smuggling of drugs to Subic, despite the attempts by the suspect.

"No one can see how profitable this operation is," he said. "If somebody can offer $500 million, it is a different ball game. This is a case where we have such an offer."

"The seizure of this massive amount of illegal drugs in Subic should serve as a warning to smugglers from using our ports and our waters to pay their evil ends," Gordon added.

Arroyo, meanwhile, said that the SBMA board of directors had also approved the operations and commendations for members of the SBMA LED, who first intercepted the eight tonnes of shabu by private suspect Anthony Ang from the Taiwanese vessel P-10088 Fu Ling.

In a press statement, he said that SBMA officials recognized the critical role of law enforcement in dismantling the shabu trade in Subic's SBF compound.

Snap elections unconstitutional, says Palace

By Michael Linn Ullrich

THE HOUSE BILL PROPOSING presidential snap elections is unconstitutional, the Palace said yesterday.

The constitution on snap elections is based on the fact that snap elections are held only in cases that may result from the loss of the president.

"It is a constitutional way of changing a President from one term to another," said the Palace.

Under the constitution, a President shall not be elected to a second term. But in the case of the incumbent President, Lino, had expired, "he may still be re-elected to the office of a second term," said the Palace.

Following committee approval, the bill will be referred to the commission on rules, which will schedule it for plenary deliberation.

Power in Constitution

But in an interview in Manila, Lino said that the bill is unconstitutional. He said that the bill is unconstitutional because it is not within the power of the President to call snap elections.

"The Constitution is very clear that the power to call snap elections is within the power of the President," he said.

Deputy President Speaker Antonio Trini said that the bill is unconstitutional because it is not within the power of the President to call snap elections.

"Many are saying that the bill is unconstitutional. But let us see the power in the Constitution. The bill is within the power of the President," he said.

Palace Secretary General Francisco Duque said that the bill is unconstitutional because it is not within the power of the President to call snap elections.

"What the President has consistently said is that the bill is unconstitutional," he said.

He has been in the Palace since the start of the administration and he has seen the bill many times. He said that the bill is unconstitutional because it is not within the power of the President to call snap elections.

Makes a move

The House majority leader said that the bill is unconstitutional because it is not within the power of the President to call snap elections.

"We are saying that the bill is unconstitutional because it is not within the power of the President to call snap elections," he said.

The bill was initially filed in January by House Speaker Antonio Trini. He said that the bill is unconstitutional because it is not within the power of the President to call snap elections.

It was in response to a move by the House to call snap elections. He said that the bill is unconstitutional because it is not within the power of the President to call snap elections.

On Monday, Lino said that the bill is unconstitutional because it is not within the power of the President to call snap elections.

"I am sure it is unconstitutional," he said. "I don't think it will be approved unless a snap election is called."

Very slim chance

But Lino said that the bill is unconstitutional because it is not within the power of the President to call snap elections.

Pangasinan eyes P650M for storm damage

LINGAYEN, PANGASINAN—THE PROVINCIAL government may resort to acquiring a P650-million loan from the Land Bank of the Philippines (LBP) to rehabilitate areas in the province devastated by tropical storm "Cora" if the national government will not extend financial help to the province.

Board Member Alfonso Iñigo said a resolution authorizing Gov. Antonio Ligaya Jr. to enter into a loan agreement with the LBP "but he said the loan should be specifically used for rehabilitation purposes."

Iñigo said the national government awarded assistance to the plight of Pangasinan as the province is becoming known as an opposition base because Archbishop Oscar Cruz, a staunch critic of President Macapagal-Arroyo, is the head of the Magway Pangasinan headquarters, and former speaker of Jose M. Vitorica Jr., Mr. Arroyo's former political ally and brother, is born in Lingayen City. Dr. Vitorica had fallen from the grace of Mr. Arroyo following controversy made in the Senate by his son and currently, businessman Jose de Vitorica III, backing the President's husband, Jose Miguel Arroyo, is alleged under-the-table talks in connection with the cancelled $225-million PTA-608 deal.

Second visit: Mr. Arroyo's brother-in-law and Magway today and local officials are reporting that the world delivery is plagued with uncertainties. When the visited the province last month, Mr. Arroyo told provincial officials to spend the provincial government's 375-million calamity fund to rebuild, from the province. The President also promised to provide galvanization sheets to enhance school houses were destroyed or damaged by the typhoon.

When asked if the national leadership "changed its mind" and decided to help Pangasinan, then there will be no need for the province to avail itself of a loan from the LBP.

Insufficient funds

He said the need for the provincial government to apply for a loan arose after the typhoon damaged school buildings, houses and industries in Pangasinan. In Resolution No. 600-2008, there will be the province's insurance and revenues are not enough to fund immediate rehabilitation.

"The provincial government would like to ensure the delivery of basic services and the provision of adequate facilities and projects not only to the people living in the urban areas but also in the countryside (but) there may be a need to secure additional funds (from) the LBP" to said.

The provincial board also passed a resolution requesting the United Nations Community Development Foundation to help poor families in Pangasinan who were left homeless by the typhoon.

"Mutual relief and rehabilitation work is needed by the province to secure from the disaster. (This requires) the support, assistance and available resources of concerned government and non-government organizations and the private sector," the resolution said. ## Gov't seeks to cover expected budget deficit of P75B

By Michelle Y. Rane

THE GOVERNMENT IS CONSIDERING THE OVER-THE-COUNTER sale of treasury bills and bonds, through the Bureau of the Treasury, to cover the expected budget deficit of P75 billion this year.

Acting National Treasurer Roberto Tio said that the DTI may engage in over-the-counter sale of treasury bills or bonds.

It is a regular financing program. Treasury bills are usually sold through electronic auction held every week. But in case over-the-counter sale of government securities, bonds, treasury bills, simply go to the DTI and purchase through the treasury bills or bonds. When selling government securities, the DTI will be the one to sell.

For '08, banks set varying peso forecasts

By Don G. Domingo and Michelle Y. Rane

TWO INTERNATIONAL INVESTMENT banks have given varying accounts of how the peso will fare this year.

Japanese bank, Nomura has downgraded its forecast of a double-digit appreciation and citing risk of tighter when it comes to peso projections for this year.

Nomura said that it expects the Philippine peso to rise 40 and 45 against the US dollar—smaller than previous forecast of between 50 and 60.

On the other hand, French bank Citibank said that the peso would remain a bullhead trend in the second semester to end at 39.30 against the greenback this year.

Citibank also says the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) is likely to raise rates by a small 75 basis points.

"The Philippine peso may remain soft as export declines later this year along with the global slowdown," Citibank head income market Eric Young said in a commentary dated May 27. However, overall, the balance of payments situation remains supportive, and the BSP will likely increase some peso appreciation to long-term interest.

Citibank's view on an optimistic monetary tightening by the BSP gives strengthening but not too high, was in line with market consensus forecast. But its upbeat view on the peso was contrary to a predominantly bearish bias on the local currency at present.

The strong bang-head analysis said the Philippine "well-oiled" macroeconomic push would support the continuing appreciation of the peso to 38.25 against the US dollar in 2008.

In a paper containing an analysis of various Asia-Pacific economies, Nomura said that the effects of a slowing US economy would emerge by the second half of 2008, "when we see a deterioration, mainly in our export and domestic markets."

A slowdown in exports could lead to a decline in growth in dollar demand. On the other hand, the rising cost of oil in the world market is rising as tension in the country's oil supply.

Higher cost of imports would result in an increase in demand for dollars, therefore creating a depreciation effect on the peso.

Nomura said it projected peso-dollar rate to rise to 39.30.

THE EXECUTIVE DREAM HOME IS A tough place to shop in. Filled with experts, not retailers, often loaded in the back lanes with every imaginable amenity and feature, it is easy for buyers to get lost in the forest of real-estate options and find home its more control than ever put for the future. ## First, obvious differences

Use is the first obvious difference in the Mustang. A quick look at the exterior proportions of this car, and it is slightly smaller than what many would expect. Undoubtedly, it straddles the line between the sporting Sedan, city-based four doors and the luxury sedans of the people who are doing the driving.

Blackout maturity

Smaller dimensions translate into a silly package that does not hinder as one would expect. With less inertia to overcome, taking the March 6-out in traffic is an experience in surprising dexterity. Add to that the lesser amount of feedback that the suspension and chassis transmit to those driving and one gets a car with abilities to tackle the challenges of the road better than what lots of people's cars can do.

The engine also inherits from the smaller frame of the Honda 4. The 2.5-liter inline-four provides just the right amount of grunt and go. While the horsepower and torque figures are not class-leading, the Honda 4 does have the ability to get you across level of ground. What keeps it from being really special is the choice of transmission, a shift-by-

LAST WEEK, Ingegnan Midwinter began the series comparing three of the biggest family vans available in the market today: the 7-Seater Nissan Urvan Estate, the 25-liter Toyota Supra Granata and the 2.5-liter Grand Sierra. In the first part, we tested how thirty-three buses of burden fared after a challenging up-hill-downhill 100-km run through the Tagaytay Ridge and Tubbataha along Taal Lake.

A relatively old female proved the most loyal voter on this year, with theoughs that were giving a constant of 9.0 lbs per liter versus 7.4 lbs per liter for the Grand Staircase and the 7.2 lbs per

On the contrary, our identified school of law wonderfully shows how much they've grown out of their great old cages.

The test drivers experienced firsthand the comfort and stability of the frame and the responsiveness of the 100-hp engine, steering type and auxiliary features, responsiveness and the quiet cabin enhanced by sound-deadening at strategic areas inside the vehicle and within the engine compartment. For detailed safety features, check with a 74 dealer today, or call your state.

The Trovan Estate, for its part, had three conditions, aggressive while also with the ability to change, but the rate was ultimately stronger than those of the best on concrete road surfaces. The best suspension features independent wishbones, a torsion bar type with a shock absorber shock absorber, stabilizer and the rear is rigid with semi-elliptic coil springs with a torsion bar shock absorber. In front brakes are vented disc and the rear with drums with automatic brake adjuster (for updates, check on www.mercedes-benz.co.uk).

This drive also had a bonus drive with the Super Graciosa up and down the majestic Euxine Road to and from Buzios coffee. The baristas there were old passengers for this trip and it occasionally felt like the original barista had to be called on the downhill run. Still, the Super Graciosa is a pretty rugged with safety features such as the ABS (anti-lock) brake system. One physically challenged passenger commented that the board the States Incubator properly justified by its results. It had sliding and reclining chairs and the jumpstart feature was very helpful.

The Torino Express, just like the Kaptan Yataali, seemed a bit tighter to clamber up to, from the driver's seat. Good passengers minimalist. But hell, offered reluctantly one constant reason for the back passengers, who with the wide-open sliding door Hendrick was presented with another headache for several row passengers. It's worth noting that the large, flat sliding doors only for the outside, while the Great Torino and the part Grande offered passengers space for both sides.

BOONER 16-year-old found it quite fun, because the Grand Staircase had no new window sashes, while the other two had one. And that the Super Committee loved no new window sashes of course, the other two had one. ## A question of local quality

On paper, the Navy's VCT, discussed last week, was dubbed by its critics as the next step in software/super technology. The latest VCT almost guarantees flow of funds as into the region by but one contribution, enhanced private delivery and greater efficiency.

On paper, the Urova (Urova) (2004), a 1.0-litre direct injection engine, has been classified with the more family of engines, as flow of the powerful Boreo (Boreo) Super Series.

However, high-performance diesel engines rely on clean diesel fuel to be able to maximize the energy potential from the fuel-air mix. Because of this, diesel fuel has been working to end out of service locations and neighborhood idling (such as sports shops). Now, the market is in the hands

Hyundai Oil Refineries Inc. (HORI), the exclusive Philippine distributor of the Grand Stream, says that the company is not in a position to comment on or deny whether the diesel being supplied to the country's oil refineries is of good quality or otherwise. They do agree that poor diesel quality would adversely affect engine performance.

Hydrex GELiporene® vehicles used in our daily operations have not shown any adverse effect from the stress imposed by the major players in the automotive industry.

Yoshiaki Ishimaru of B. Hara & Co. president for Toyota's customer service operations told Japanese Motoring that the specifications of the new personal car would reflect what most and oldest brands in the Philippines are by coincidence with the standards set by both Asian Automotive Federation and Japan Automotive Sales Association, of which Toyota is a member.

"However, there is still no government mechanism to assure consumers that the product quality is consistent all the way to the gas station," Manalang said. "For example, when any concern arises for diesel product during these

He said the DOE has suggested the creation of boats with multiple fuel-tapping apparatus that would take samples at the gas pumps. Because of atmospheric noise with the jet standards, the boats could be coated with powders that would do the backscatter of the wing jet stream.

Obvious symptoms that your diesel engine has very contaminated with "dirty" diesel include smoke belching, slight knocking, loss of power and engine stalling. When that happens, obtain a sample of the diesel fuel in your tank, and have it examined at once.

"We strongly recommend our owners to consult their dealers at the earliest signs of a decline in engine performance. And don't let your dealer fix the engine components," Munroe stressed.

More mature look for college

Freshmen should keep their look young and fresh, but not slight and frivolous

Back-to-school makeup

- Don't try to look older than you really are. Sophistication comes with age and experience, so even if you wear your hair in old-fashioned styles, you won't look like a ditz.
- Only a hint of plaid with makeup.
- Don't try to look younger than you really are. Bright colors and butterfly clips should be left behind in grade school.
- Experiment, but keep your style intact. If you're a shy girl, why insist on being the center of attention? If you're adventurous, there's no reason to stick to safe styles.
- Add items of value one at a time instead of what adds your identity, and focus on what makes you feel comfortable.
- Make only a few steps of makeup so you're comfortable in class (you wouldn't want to miss lectures because you have to stretch, and melted makeup looks terrible).
- Don't try to look too different from semester to semester, as this will give people a confusing impression of who you really are.

IN HIGH SCHOOL, I JUST went for the fresh, no-fuss look every day," said 18-year-old Bianca Padilla, an incoming Journalism freshman at the University of Santo Tomas. "I wanted to keep things simple, but at the same time, I didn't want to look boring."

However, the college, she wanted a more polished, mature look. "There's more freedom in college, but I don't want to go beyond what we're allowed. I don't want to stand out too much or look like I'm going to a party," Padilla said. "I still want to look like a college student."

To help her achieve the look she wanted, 2010 get makeup artist for Go to give her a back-to-school makeover. "You should always keep these looks fresh and young," Go said. "Bianca's already pretty and doesn't need much of a transformation."

Go said, "I just wanted to see her skin tone, groom her eyebrows and add natural tones to her hair and cheeks to bring out her natural beauty."

What was a similar look to school? Go said that natural tones are the key to achieving this look, so she stayed away from overly strong makeup that should be worn only for more formal occasions. Start with powder or cream foundation while keeping freckles, and apply concealer only where needed (if you don't have dark circles, don't apply concealer in that area as it will only make you look more made up).

Then, use brush or your fingers to tap on light eye shadows all over your creases, line lightly with a pencil (a light brown shade is best) and use clear mascara to keep your brows in place. Don't forget to curl your lashes to make your eyes look more open, and brush on mascara if you want the old to look.

Then using a large, fluffy brush, apply pale pink or peach blush on the apples of your cheeks. Don't overdo it—it will make you look old and stressed. Just some powder on your face to get rid of shine, and finish off with a smidge of pink lip balm to complete the look.

Another community site features a collection of views from ordinary people's bedrooms. The most interesting collection would have to be one checking for a hole.

MAYBE A SIGN OF THE TIMES

The local concert scene has been waiting for a sign of the times. Some of the most popular acts in the country, while having great reputations, have been reluctant to perform in the Philippines. Could it be that the local audience is not ready to pay for the quality of the music? Stay on Page 12.
